

The East-West University Boxing Team is entering its second year as one of the Institution's most dynamic and disciplined athletic programs. As official members of USA Boxing, the team is now eligible to compete in national leagues, showcasing elite talent, grit, and student-athlete excellence on a national stage. Built on a foundation of resilience, respect, and rigorous training, the program continues to attract driven competitors who are committed to both their academic and athletic development.

With a focus on personal growth, competition, and community impact, the East-West Boxing Team is quickly becoming a force to be reckoned with in collegiate boxing.

Leading the program is Dr. Bill Hillmann, a Golden Gloves Champion and respected figure in the boxing world. With a deep passion for the sport and decades of experience, both in and out of the ring, Dr. Hillmann brings unmatched expertise, discipline, and mentorship to East-West's fighters. His championship pedigree and commitment to developing well-rounded student-athletes have laid the groundwork for a winning culture, rooted in excellence, accountability, and heart. Under his guidance, the program continues to rise, inspiring a new generation of champions.

Dr. Bill Hillmann is not only known for his impressive Boxing career. He also serves as an exceptional mentor both in the ring and in the classroom. Dr. Bill Hillmann currently works as the Assistant Professor for the English and Communication department at East-West University. He is also an author, journalist, speaker, storyteller, and event producer.
